Mrs. Lulu Tefft States She Will Continue to Reside in Same House With Husband and Aid Him in Business

Wife Says Other Half Fails to Appreciate Her Artistic Soul, But He's a Good Fellow Just the Same and Right Sort

When Mrs. Lulu May Tefft, artist and writer of Eerkeley, put her thoughts, "The Musings of Mother" in book form, Clinton Tefft, business man and civic worker, failed to open the covers. When she sought again through the media of paint and canvass to express her soul he hrushed over her efforts without a word of comment. So she is suing for a divorce. Separation, she says, will afford a same and sensible way of adjusting certain conditions, but will not mean that the friendship of the two will cease.

While the courts are grinding out a decree the Teffts will continue to live under the same roof at 2901 Grove street, and the "business partnership" which has existed between the two for years, will continue. They have been matried for sixteen years and it is the clash of the acsthetic with the material that has wrecked the remande wrecked the remance. AND WIFE STILL DEFENDS HUSBAND

Former Empress of Germany Ill; Death Expected

(By United Press)
BERLIN, April 13.—The former Empress of Germany is seriously ill at her retreat in Holland and her death is expected shortly, the Deutsche Tages Zeitung said today. The former empress, the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, has been reported seriously ill several times during recent years. Shortly before the close of the war she was under care of specialists in Berlin.

Her health was said to have be-come worse when the imperial family fled from Berlin to Holland. Recent despatches said her old physicians had been called from Berlin to attend her. She was suffering from heart trouble, complicated by other diseases.

It's a Wise Man Who Knows His Own Teeth

Even a dentist may not be able to detect hidden tooth disorders when viewed with the naked eye. A mass of "matter" or pus in the pulp or heart of the teeth may sometimes exist unsuspected for months and even years. This is due to the fact that the walls of the central chamber of the teeth are incapable of always indicating on the outside exactly what is wrong within. An X-Ray picture of your teeth always reveals the real source of the trouble. Disorders in the heart of a tooth may be a constant menace to the health, continuously pouring poison into the rest of your anatomy. Generally this cause goes unrecognized until au X-Ray photograph tells the tale. Among the human ailments to be laid frequently at this door are loss of flesh, insomnia, St. Vitus dance, bone and joint pains, misnamed "rheumatism," indigestion and a whole array of afflictions, including tuberculosis. Cases of ulcers of the stomach have been known to apparently cure themselves when the guilty teeth exposed by the X-Rays were removed. It is just for such cases, in fact where there is any doubt whatever, that I have installed an X-Ray machine in my office. My X-Ray department is under the supervision of an experienced radiographer, so that we can absolutely guarantee the proper treatment in the filling of root canals which is the foundation work of all good dentistry.

Calloway has evidently repher readers very much as Heffel-Report hath it that a large body of baggest beat of the year. I will let at a larger salary. Somebody send Ames to me."

Ames was the king-pin, the snowypetalled marguerite, the star-bright looloo of the rewrite men. He saw attempted murder in the pains of green-apple colic, cyclones in the summer zephyr. lost children in every top-spinning urchin, an uprising of the down-trodden masses in every hurling of a derelict potato at a passing automobile. When not rewriting. Ames sat on the porch of his Brooklyn villa playing checkers with his ten-year-old son.

Ames and the "war editor" shut themselves in a room. There was a map in there stuck full of little pins that represented armies and divisions. Their fingers had been itching for days to move those pins along the crooked line of the YMu. Their fingers had been itch-They did so now: and in words of fire Ames translated Calloway's brief message into a front page master-piece that set the world talking. He told of the secret councils of the Japanese officers; gave Kuroki's flaming speeches in full; counted the cavalry and infantry to a man and a horse; described the quick and silent building of the bridge at Sulhauchen, across which the Mikado's legions were hurled upon the surprised Zassuliten, whose troops were widely scattered along the river. And the battle'-well, you know what Ames can do with a battle if you give him just one sirell of smoke for a foundation. And in the same story, with seemingly supernatural knowledge, he gleefully scored the most profound and ponderous paper in England for the false and misleading account of the intended movements of the Japanese First army printed in its issue of the same date. Only one error was made; and that was the fault of the cable operator at Wi-ju. Calloway pointed it out after he came back. The word "great" in his code should have been "guge" and its complemental words

"of battle." But it went to Ames
"conditions white," and of course he took that to mean snow. His description of the Japanese army struggling through the snowstorm, blinded by the whirling flakes, was thrillingly vivid. The artists turned out some effective illustrations that made a hit as pictures of the artil-lery dragging their guns through the drifts. But, as the attack was made on the first day of May the "conditions white" excited some armsement. But it made no difference to the Enterprise, anyway.

P was wonderful. And Calloway was wonderful in having made the new censor belave that his jargon of words meant no more than a com-plaint of the dearth of news and a petition for more money, And Vesey was wonderful. And most wonderful of all are words, and how they make friends one with another, beng oft associated until not even obituary notices them do part. On the second day following, the city editor halted at Vesey's desk where the reporter was writing the tory of a man who had broken his ig by falling into a coal hole—Ames saving failed to find a murder mo-

Fighting Hunger

Hunger is never more than a few days away from the American people.

The coal strike showed us what a narrow margin the country goes on, even in a nonperishable necessity which can be stored.

Swift & Company is engaged in the business of fighting hunger.

From coast to coast, from the Great Lakes to the Gulf, the lines of defense are drawn-packing plants at strategic points; branch houses in four hundred towns and cities; hundreds of car routes; thousands of refrigerator cars; tens of thousands of loyal men and women expert in their work.

Day by day, hour by hour ceaselessly. this fight, your fight, goes on. Yet so smoothly, surely and victoriously that you. unaware how close hunger always is, are as certain each night of tomorrow's meat as you are of tomorrow's sun.

And so economically is this done that the cost to you for this service is less than three cents a pound of meat sold. The profits shared in by more than 30,000 shareholders will be money makes the victory possible is only a fraction of a cent a pound on all products.

If hunger did not make it necessary for us to fight this fight in the best possible way for all concerned, the competition of hundreds of other packers, large and small, would compel us.

Eight Women Successful In Eastbay Elections

There were 868 votes cast out of a total of 1125 registered voters. In the city hall precincts the vote carried 8 to 1 for the incumbents, in the industrial center the ratio was 2 to 1 and in the third segregation the incumbents came out victorious by 20 votes. It was one of the most spiri-

ed elections in Emeryville.

There was unusual interest in the Pittsburg election. Out of 950 regis-trations 206 votes were cast. Judge ever had a merchant marine anywhere near the to cause apprehensions. present and prospective size of America's, and no country ever paid less attention to its needs. Some days ago The Tribune pointed out that uniess adequate governmental action were taken in this, one of the country's greatest problems, the anatter would necessarily become a principal issue in the presidential campaign. Continued dilatory tactics at Washington would indicate that this will be the ease and that legislation for the welfare of the great new mercantile interest must wait the advent of a new administration.

In the merchant marine is an American opportunity neglected and such an opportunity as this country has never seen before. Not even able to handle the matter of the disposal of a few ex-Ger man ships, the President, his advisers, and Con gress have dallied until the shipping world is all but exasperated. The time for action was two years ago and has been present with each day that has passed unheeded. Unless something is done at once, and there seems to be small prospect, the present administration will have definitely added another failure to its list and wil have added one more reason to those which insist on a change toward accomplishment.

Including the private contracts for ships re cently placed in American shippards, the American merchant marine, in the near future, will have a total of 18,000,000 tons. In June, 1914, it commissed 7998000 rone and of this total only 1,076,000 were in foreign trade. Over 6,000,000 tons were in the Great Lakes and sea and river

The tonnage of the United Kingdom is about the same as that of the new American merchant marine, but it is protected and fostered by a goverument that realizes the importance of its carrving scade and which will not allow any neglect to interfere with its growth and development.

The merchant marine must be one of the our standing issues of the campaign unless an administration which has refused to recognize it suddealy awakens to a realization of its importance.

HADDINESS Why a Hungry Child May

Safely Eat Between Meals By DR. LEONARD K. HIRSHBERG. A. B., M. A., M. D. (Jonds Hopkins University)

Often you go to bed feeling as fine Mothers often write to ask whether heir children should be forbidden to cat between meals. Here is a typical child comes home hungry after playing hard since dinner, but I put her to bed without a thing because I have been told that it harms her to eat between meals. This hunger seems to be a hardship to me, because she goes skating, plays basket ball and otherwise uses up her previous meal quickly. What should I do?

In the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal recently, Drs. C. G. & F. G. Renedict proved that ice cream. fruits, soft drinks and other dainties often yield an amazing amount of food value, sometimes as much indeed as the average breakfast. Furthermore, the Journal of the American Medical Association says: "In a more recent contribution, the same investigators have brought further actual evidence of the unexpected food value of the items innocently consumed without thought of possible nourishment therein by housands every day. Prior to the recent inflation of prices, from 50 to 60 calories were frequently obtainable in so-called penny candies. In some of the cheap nut candles the vield even exceeded 109 calories for the small coin that delights the child.

The eating or "extra food" is by no neuns confined to children. The idult man and woman who depends on the meal-time food fuel of from 2004 to 3000 heat units or calories a day sometimes indulges in candy as a pastime or eats an after-theater unch for the sake of sociability-not because he or she feels the need of more food nor because they apprecitte the magnitude of the diet intake.

It will come as a surprise to most persons to learn that a single caramei, a nougatine or a penny's worth of candy, may furnish sufficient energy to supply the extra heat needed for walking a mile or more. Equally startling will be the news that three seemingly insignificant, medium-sized olives can yield the amount of heat liberated in a half-

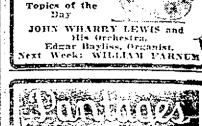

We are informed that for a man of average weight to walk from the bottom to the top of Washington Monument would require an extra candidate for the honor from that siderable effort may be completely replaced by the consumption of less burn Shinn of Niles was the first than balf a doughnut, six walnuts, five large olives or four pretzels. Perhaps we should learn from such facts how futile a "constitutional" walk is in any attempt to combat the accumulating energy from undue eating between meals. Or possibly, on the other hand, the doughnut will gain a repute as a standby in times of muscular stress and thus retain in peace the unique favor that it won through the efforts of the Salvation Therefore, if your child plays hard, and is hungry, or if you are in your

WOMEN REFUSE RAILWAY PASSES GIVEN 'VETERANS'

PITTSBURG, Cal., April 12 .-When the Southern Pacific recently took its railroad back from the government, it issued passes to the old retired employees who had served a certain number of years. The passes had the word "veteran" printed across the face.

Some of the retired women employees objected to this word, as was indicative of their age. The result is that the company has called in all the "veteran" passes issued to women. Until a new form without the objectionwomen are without

Jackson's Phonograph Department is different---

You are invited to use these Phonograph Salons as a downtown resting place to meet your friends.

It's your department---and we want you to use it. Located on the main floor, to the right as you enter the building.

Make yourself comfortable in the lounging chairs arranged clear across the front of this department.

Ask the attendants to play for you gations at all.

some of the newest records and your oldtime favorites.

You are under no obligation to do anything but rest and feel bettered by it.

Form the habit of coming in to Jackson's homelike Phonograph Department for a little rest and music when you are tired from your shopping.

Remember---you are under no obli-
